

A moth can mimic, or look like, another creature. They are really good at it, too!

Why do you think a moth might want to look like something else?

